

Critical illness (CI) insurance is, arguably, the life insurance product that has seen the most innovation in the last decade. When first introduced in South Africa in 1983, CI (then called dread disease insurance) covered just four events: heart attack, cancer, stroke, and

